

The University of Cincinnati Office of Research The UC Coalition for Change (C3) Program

Building on previous and current internal investments as part of Research2030, the Office of Research seeks to incentivize novel research, exceptional scholarship, and the production of creative and performing art that addresses issues of increasing significance to our community.

This funding opportunity follows a one-step application process open to UC faculty whose proposed activities can be defined or characterized as arts-based, human-centered, or social, behavioral, and/or economic research with community impact. The C3 Program is now open on a rolling basis, however, the grant-funded performance period for this offering is summer 2025. There is not an application budget limit per proposal.

Applicants are asked to consider, articulate, and ultimately measure how the proposed project will measurably impact society & culture. As high-level frames of reference, the Office of Research refers applicants to two impact frameworks:
